

Students have it down to a fine art

Stratford School Academy has been feeling more like a gallery recently, hosting their annual exhibition showcasing work from the students' final GSCE pieces.

The event, hosted at the school in Forest Gate, saw a high turnout of admiring students, staff and parents. Students also provided musical entertainment, with a spot of DJ'ing thrown in for good measure.

Year 11 Art sketchbooks and Design and Technology portfolios were on display and it was a chance to celebrate the creative projects and pieces that students have been working hard on for the past two years.

The exhibition was curated by former pupil Ajay Pabial, who is currently studying for a degree in Fine Art at the University of Reading.

Artwork from the exhibition